HAZARDS ON STREETS OF SHANGHAI ARE ON INCREASE

Traffic Accidents From Beginning Of Year Total 1,009

33 ARE KILLED

New Regulation Aimed To Prevent Mishaps On Tram Cars

The hazard of meeting with death or injury in Shanghai's streets is on the increase, according to figures given in the police report for the month of May, published in the Municipal Gazette which is issued today.

This report recites that since the beginning of the year traffic accidents reported in the Settlement limits have attained a total of 1,009 and in these accidents 33 people lost their lives, considerably more than one a week. In the period 471 persons were hurt in traffic accidents.

In the same period last year 994 accidents were reported in which 25 persons were killed and 437 were injured.

In the record of accidents for this year it is set forth that nine of those killed and 97 who suffered injuries were victims by reason of improper riding on tram cars and it is with the aim of lessening the number of tram car accidents that the authorities now are carrying into effect new drastic regulations, one of which prohibits riding on steps of tram cars.

In the month of May the majority of traffic accidents were caused by motor cars as of the total of 197 traffic accidents for the month 103 were caused by motor vehicles and in these 57 people were hurt while three lost their lives. This is a decrease from the number of motor vehicle accidents in May last year when 49 persons were injured and two were killed in 106 motor vehicle accidents.

Thirty-nine tramcar accidents occurred in May and in these 27 persons were injured and two lost their lives. This is under the total tramcar accidents in May of 1921 when 41 accidents occurred in which 29 persons were injured with no fatalities.

SIDNEY BARTON NAMED BRITISH CONSUL GENERAL

Chinese Secretary At Peking Legation Promoted

Peking, June 14.—The Secretary of State has approved the appointment of Mr. Sidney Barton, Chinese Secretary to the British Legation at Peking, as Consul-General at Shanghai.

Sidney Barton, C.M.G., formerly vice-consul here, has been Chinese Secretary at His Majesty's Legation at Peking since 1911. He was born in 1876, and is the youngest son of Captain James Barton, late of the Royal Artillery. His mother is the daughter of Sir David Edward Barclay, tenth baronet of Pierston, Ayrshire. He was married in 1904 and has two sons and two daughters. He was educated at St. Paul's school, studying for the law, and entered the Consular service in 1895, in China, and was on special duty at Weihaiwei from 1899 to 1901. During the following two years he was vice-consul at Peking, and served in the same capacity at Tientsin in 1905 and 1906. From the latter year until 1910 he was vice-consul at Shanghai.

During the troubles in China in 1900 he served as interpreter and as Assistant Political officer to the British Contingent in the North China Field Force, in which capacity he performed such valiant service that he was mentioned in despatches and was awarded a medal.

Mr. Barton is well known in the British community of Shanghai, having made scores of friends in the years that he served as vice consul here. Prominent Britons expressed the opinion last night that he would make an excellent Consul-General, and that his appointment to the important post made vacant by the death of Sir Everard Fraser would be well received in Shanghai.

And All He Tends Is Water!

GEORGE W. Bleam, of the crew of the U.S.S. Talbot now in port here, is known as "the best water-tender in the American Navy." In the above photograph he appears with Miss Irene Corbally, of the CHINA PRESS staff. The fact that he has nothing better than water to tend doesn't seem to keep him from smiling.

The U. S. S. Talbot Stars As 'Sub-Deb' Schooner

By Irene Corbally

There are ships and ships, some that pass in the night, others that carry freight, and some, like the U. S. S. Talbot, of the American destroyer squadron now sojourning in our midst, that do more good quiet propaganda for the American navy than tons of well-directed publicity, gunnery records, etc.

The Talbot, named in memory of Captain Silas Talbot, of Revolutionary fame, is the social light of the squadron. It is, in fact, the "sub-deb schooner." Without hesitation, after a day aboard, I should ascribe its popularity to two things. It has a crowd of officers and men who can smile in such fashion that the strongest-minded man-hater who might go aboard will wish she had brought another roll of film for her camera. The crowd can do more than smile, however. They supplement this accomplishment with a fast line of conversation that is as good as the chocolate ice cream they dish out to visitors, than which there is no higher praise, for the ice cream is as smooth as satin and as rich as Rockefeller. You can always get "seconds" on the Talbot, too, without being embarrassed by your appetite, for consumption of two platefuls is necessary to express full appreciation of this super-dessert.

The Talbot is not seeing Shanghai for the first time. She was here last October and there are aboard pictures of Lieutenant Commander J. C. Van De Carr, taken in a ricsha, to prove it. Before making Shanghai, the Talbot had been everywhere.

A WORLD-WIDE "REP"

According to first-hand information from another ship, it has a reputation, and a good one, that extends from one coast of the Pacific to the other. The reputation is not just the width of the Pacific; it has the breadth of the world in between, for it has circumnavigated the globe.

The Talbot's first coat of paint was not battleship grey, but the lurid wigwagging of the colors of camouflage. The little ship was in war service, acting mostly as escort to transports. After the armistice, its splendid behavior was rewarded with a Mediterranean cruise.

The smiling blue of the Mediterranean and the starlit nights when the crew got together to play jewsharps and tinkle ukes and banjos in quarters after the evening call of "chow down, come and get it," were left for a little, while the orders to return to the States were obeyed. But a sojourn in the sunshine of Cuban waters followed, after which the destroyer came back to the East.

Here it has made a name for itself for it has collected a series of "bests" and, were it so minded, it could rest on its now green laurels for a long time.

There is, for instance, the baseball team of the ship. Five of the nine of the division team regulars call the Talbot their home. And in gunnery, the Talbot holds the squadron record in short range practice.

A WIZARD WITH WATER?

Then there is George W. Bleam,

PAPERS TELL OF ODD PHASES OF TRUE'S CAREER

Evidence That Won Reprieve For Former Shanghai Man In London Reviewed

Presenting further details in connection with the celebrated London murder case in which Major Ronald True, once of the customs service in Shanghai, was sentenced to death and later was reprieved, newspapers in England, recounting testimony of witnesses, deal at length with the man's eccentricities and with characteristics that marked him as a singular individual while he lived in Shanghai.

The former British aviator and war hero was found guilty of having murdered his sweetheart, Gertrude Yates, and largely upon testimony of physicians that he was unbalanced a reprieve was granted in the case.

After four physicians had given their expert opinion that True was insane, the defence called a number of friends and acquaintances of True who gave testimony concerning a number of his queer actions in various parts of the world.

James Armstrong, one witness, testified that True had once suggested to him the formation of a 'Murderer's Club', a society to dispose of people at 'a bob a nob.'

Wu Pei-fu's Disarmament Plan To Be Presented To China's Militarists Soon

Will Reduce Army For National Defense And Abolish Inspectorates-General And Yamens Of Military Governors, Defense Commissioners, Tartar-Generals And Military Commissioners

Details of the plan being proposed by General Wu Pei-fu for the abolition of the tuchunate and the disbanding of superfluous troops reached Shanghai yesterday through a private source. It is understood that the manifesto which covers an extensive field will be telegraphically circulated shortly among the military authorities in the various provinces for serious consideration.

A gist of the detailed plan is as follows:

A disarmament commission will be created. Its personnel will consist of the Premier, Chief of the General Staff, Minister of War, Minister of Navy, Minister of Finance, Minister of Interior, Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, Minister of Communications, Minister of Justice and Minister of Education, Inspector-Generals of Provinces, Military Governors, Tartar-Generals, Defense Commissioners, Civil Governors, or their plenipotentiary representatives, as well as soldiers of national repute and politicians. The commission will be empowered to eliminate all undesirable military offices and superfluous troops.

SLATED TO GO

The offices which have been suggested for abolition are the Inspectorates-General, the Military Council or Chiangchunfu, the Tuchunates, and the yamens of the Defense Commissioners, the Tartar-Generals and the Military Commissioners. Other officers to be eliminated under the scheme are:

a.—Those who are illiterate or having no military experience. These will be dismissed after given a small fee.

b.—Those whose records are not clean or who have bad habits.

c.—Those whose age does not come within the requirements of the army regulations. Those whose physical conditions are unfit to military activities and those who have been wounded in action. These are to be discharged after fitting compensation.

d.—Those who have had no military education.

e.—Those whose offices have been abolished. They will be placed on the reserved list and given appointments when vacancies occur.

The soldiers to be disbanded under the new plan will include:

a.—Those who have unclean records or bad habits.

b.—Illiterates.

c.—Those who do not fulfill the age requirement, which is between 17 and 34.

d.—Men with weak constitution.

e.—Those who will retire voluntarily.

The methods by which the disbanded troops will be handled are to include:

PROVISION FOR AGED

a.—Soldiers who are too old to serve or who are willing to retire are to be given three months' pay and repatriated under the supervision of the local authorities.

b.—Troops having police duty qualifications may be despatched to the various police districts for service or placed on the police service waiting list.

c.—Troops who are disbanded on account of age requirements may be given appointments to serve with district or city volunteer corps.

d.—Wounded soldiers may be put in "homes for the wounded."

e.—Under age soldiers may be placed in industrial homes to be given the opportunity to learn trades.

The work of disarmament is to be carried out in three periods.

a.—The period of investigation, which is to last for about four months, during which the resolutions adopted by the disarmament commission shall be published and circulated among the troops and promulgated by Presidential Mandates, for which the present Tuchuns and Tartar-Generals will act as executives. No promotion or recruiting should take place during the period. No transfer of forces should be authorised. The disarmament executives are to file with the commission all statistics concerning the military offices, units, officers and their service records, their stations and the exact number of troops, guns, rounds of ammunition, horses and other military requisites.

PERIOD OF INSPECTION

2.—The period of Inspection, which is to last six months. Following the receipt of the reports from the various disarmament executives, the disarmament commission is to decide on the exact number of troops to be retained in each province of special district, which decision is to be forwarded to the executives, who shall in conjunction with inspectors appointed by the commission, make a thorough investigation of the conditions of the troops and make recommendations for the curtailment in accordance with the suggestions above or any other resolutions that might be adopted by the commission.

3.—The period of actual disbandment. The executives and the specially appointed agents of the Commission shall carry out the decisions of the commission for the actual disbandment in a year. The remaining troops are to be organised in accordance with the requirements of national defence. The Ministry of War will then work out a budget for the maintenance of the national army, which budget is to be submitted to Parliament for approval.

After sanction is duly secured, the disarmament commission will cease to function and a national defense commission will be created to formulate plans for the organisation of the national army.

LI BETRAYED BY CHIHLI MILITARY MEN, SAYS SOUTH

Canton Far From Conciliatory, According To Kuo Wen Agency

(Kuo Wen News Agency)

Canton, June 14.—Official denials have been issued here in connection with reports, evidently emanating from northern circles, that the Constitutional Government had congratulated or sent representatives to congratulate General Li Yuan-hung upon his assumption to the Peking presidency. No delegates have been sent to Peking by the Constitutional Government or by any responsible official connected with the Constitutional Government.

General Li's friends here, and the various leaders, military and civil, members of Parliament, etc., are opposing the resumption of General Li Yuan-hung to the presidency in a body.

The south has decided to use military force to oppose General Li Yuan-hung and the Chihli clique.

General Li's friends here state that he is now a puppet of the Chihli militarists. He had been invited by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Mr. Tang Shao-yi and the late General Cheng Pi-kuang, by special representatives, by letter and by telegram to come to Canton. A southern gunboat was even sent to the north to convey him to Canton, but Li gave the south no reply. Now at one call of Marshal Tsao Kun and General Wu Pei-fu, these southern leaders state, Li Yuan-hung has entered Peking to resume the presidency of that place. He has not, they think, acted in a sense of fairness to his old friends, whom he has now deserted.

General Li Lieh-chun has despatched a telegram opposing Li Yuan-hung.

Parliament yesterday afternoon issued a manifesto enumerating the crimes of General Li Yuan-hung.

Can A Man Kidnap His Own Wife?

IRVIN L. Stair, of St. Paul, president of the Great Northern Grain Co., married the daughter of wealthy George P. Flannery, of St. Paul, in 1916. The Stairs, with unlimited money, were members of the highest society in the Twin Cities. Two months ago she sued for divorce, alleging cruelty. An injunction was granted restraining her husband from interfering with her, but Stair went to her home, she swears, and by pressing a pistol to her side, forced her into an auto and drove her to St. Cloud, Minn., where they spent the night. Next day, when he stopped at a gasoline station, she had him arrested. He was sentenced to sixty days in jail in Minneapolis, where he spent two weeks. Then he sued out a writ of habeas corpus, which was denied, but he was freed on bond pending an appeal. Mrs. Stair went before the Grand Jury and sought to have him indicted for kidnapping, but his attorney alleges a man can't kidnap his own wife. The Supreme Court of Minnesota will decide.

Tiger Mandarin's Guard Is Sentenced To Death

Wei Yuen-ling Who Ran Amuck And Wounded Nine With Meat Chopper Is Sent To Arsenal

Sentence of death was passed yesterday by British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui in the Mixed Court on Wei Yuen-ling, once captain in the Chinese army and former bodyguard of Tsen Chun-hsuan, ex-Viceroy of Kwangtung, known as the 'Tiger Mandarin.'

Attended by a number of tensely dramatic incidents the penalty was announced following a protracted trial in which the accused Chinese was called to answer charges of having attempted to kill nine members of the Mandarin's household when he ran amuck with a meat chopper on May 28 in the Tsen home in Hardon's Gardens on Bubbling Well Road.

Only one witness, Dr. W. E. O'Hara, was called at the resumption of the trial yesterday morning. Dr. O'Hara, who attended the amah who was most seriously injured at the General Hospital, testified that in his opinion the big bodyguard had meant to kill when he struck the blow that almost severed the amah's arm and otherwise wounded her.

ASKS DEATH SENTENCE

Mr. Anderson of Anderson & Anderson, prosecuting on behalf of the Mandarin, used the medical evidence as the basis of his plea for a death sentence. He reviewed the brutality of the crime, especially the attack with the chopper on the Mandarin's two concubines and three of his sons and one young daughter, and then asked that the death penalty be given to insure the family against future revenge.

Wei, who is six feet tall and weighs more than 200 pounds, towered out of the prisoner's dock like a giant, listening to the evidence and plea for his own death without a quiver. Just before sentence was passed, Magistrate Yui asked him several questions to which he replied in a moderate, quiet tone occasionally looking back in the court-room to where his wife and two little daughters sat with bowed heads.

ASKS ARMY REWARD

Then Wei made a statement to the court when asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed.

Addressing the Magistrate in Mandarin, and in pantomime referring to his wife and daughters several times, he repeated his request that regardless of whether he was shot or hacked to pieces he wanted his wife to get the Tls. 500 he had been given as a reward for merited service in the army, and now in possession of the concubines he had tried to kill.

Assessor Blackburn pronounced the sentence in English after Magistrate Yui had told Wei his fate in Mandarin.

"We find," he said, "that under the provisions of the Chinese criminal code an attempted crime is punishable with the same sentence as the actual performance of the crime. In this case Wei attempted murder. There are three degrees of sentence and in this case, which is aggravated by the fact that the murder was attempted by a servant on his employer, which, according to the Chinese view, is a more severe crime than ordinary, and because he attempted to kill not one, but nine persons, that the death sentence should be imposed."

SHIP SUBSIDY OR EXTRA SESSION, SAYS PRESIDENT

Harding Tells Congress There Must Be Action

(Reuter Service)

Washington, June 13.—President Harding has informed the Chairman of the House of Representatives Rules Committee that unless the Ship Subsidy bill is passed before the adjournment, he will feel obliged to call a special session to deal with it.

The Bill is meeting with considerable opposition on the ground that it is likely to involve retaliatory measures by other Powers and will hence defeat its own object.

Cincinnati, June 13.—The Convention of the American Federation of Labor today unanimously passed a resolution, condemning the Ship Subsidy Bill as inimical to public interest and destructive to the hope of the nation for sea power. The protest has been forwarded to Congress.

DIPLOMATS AT PEKING MUCH PUZZLED BY LI'S ATTITUDE

Question Of Recognition Causes Concern

FIGHTING AGAIN

Fengtien Attack On Wu's Men Bitterly Resented

BY JOSEF W. H[illegible]
Staff Correspondent, The China Press

Peking, June 14.—The Diplomatic corps is greatly puzzled over the question of recognition of the new regime, owing to the refusal of Li Yuan-hung to declare himself anything more than a temporary holder of the presidential office.

General Wu Pei-fu and his staff will arrive in Peking at dawn tomorrow for a visit to the president.

Peking, June 13.—War again has sunk its talons into the neck of the peace dove that has been hovering between Taotingfu and Mukden, a treacherous attack by the Fengtien troops upon the soldiers of Wu Pei-fu has brought about a break in the armistice.

Word from Shanhaikwan indicates that another grave struggle has started and may end only when Wu's men are camped in the old Manchu citadel at Mukden for the Chihli troops are clamoring for vengeance for the hundred men slain and 500 wounded in a surprise attack early in the morning.

Chihli made a temporary retreat but has been reinforced and is now advancing in force. A trench line has been established from the hills to the sea, a distance of three miles and artillery sufficient to blast a way through the old wall now is being brought up.

The Chihli chief of staff declares that it will take not more than three, perhaps only two days, to push a way into Manchuria. No explanation for the perfidious onslaught when an armistice was in full force, has been made.

Peking, June 13.—The Fengtien forces made repeated attacks on Sunday but each attack was repulsed. Yesterday the Fengtien right wing lost ground and is threatened by the Chihli column closing in from the direction of Jehol. The latest news does not indicate a decisive result. Meanwhile Chihli reinforcements continue to be rushed up.

Various explanations of the cause of the fighting at Shanhaikuan are reaching Peking, from which it appears that the clash was probably unpremeditated and occurred owing to the Fengtien troops remaining inside the Wall notwithstanding their undertaking to withdraw.

It is now reported that General Chang Tso-lin has intimated his readiness to accept any reasonable offer of peace and to co-operate with General Wu Pei-fu towards reunification. In this connection official reports indicate that General Chang Tso-lin was certainly not responsible for the present outbreak of hostilities.

Peking, June 13 (delayed).—A mandate dated June 12 and issued at 2:30 this morning appoints the following Cabinet:

Premier and Foreign Affairs, Dr. W. W. Yen (acting concurrently).
Finance, Mr. Tung Kang.
Navy, Admiral Li Ting-hsin.
Education, Mr. Huang Yen-pei.
Communications, Mr. Kao Eng-hung.
Interior, Mr. Tan Yen-kai.
War, General Wu Pei-fu.
Justice, Dr. Wang Chung-hui.
Agriculture and Commerce, Mr. Chang Koo-kan.

Another mandate dated June 11 and issued simultaneously accepts the resignations of Mr. Chow Tzechi and members of his Cabinet.

General Wu Pei-fu arrived here at 3:00 this morning.

Force On Way To Cut Off Chang

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 14.—General Chang Chung-chang now commands 3,000 men recently with General Kao Shih-ping at Pogranitchnaia, General Kao is proceeding south to Hsinshun.

A force is being sent from Harbin to cut off and capture General Chang and his followers.

The latest reports from Shanhaikuan say that the Chihli forces are confident of successfully terminating the hostilities within a few days.

There was heavy fighting all day yesterday, in which the Chihli forces were apparently pressed back on the right flank, but advanced two miles on the left flank, where they placed the artillery on the heights. The center is practically unchanged. Chihli reinforcements are still being rushed up as rapidly as possible.

The so-called Jehol column reached Chaoyang yesterday, from where they expelled the Fengtien troops. The Chihli forces at Chifenghsien have been ordered to Chaoyang, which is only 50 miles from the railway. The railway may consequently be cut if the fighting continues.

It is uncertain whether the Fengtien attack was unpremediated or inspired by General Chang Tso-lin, but any advantage due to the surprise has already been lost.

General Wan Fu-lin, Commandant of the Railway Guard at Manchulie, telegraphs that 7,000 Bolshevik irregulars are concentrated about 20 li west of Manchulie and that an intention on their part to occupy Manchulie is indicated by reports received. The Heilungkiang administration is taking military precautions for the defense of Manchulie.

Chekiang Tuchun Questions Sincerity Of New President

Holding General Li Yuan-hung to task for resumption of the Presidency before the realisation of his own desire for the abolition of the tuchunate and for disarmament, General Lu Yung-hsiang, Tuchun of Chekiang, yesterday addressed a telegram to the Acting president and examined Li's present occupancy of the Presidential chair.

The text of the telegram follows:

"Being of opinion that the question of the Presidency, namely, the legality or illegality of its status, was closely related with national interests and that unless the question was fundamentally solved, not only would national re-unification be necessarily impossible, but further seeds of revolution would be sown, I circularised a telegram on the 3rd inst., pointing out the various aspects of the question in their bearing upon the Constitution in the hope that the situaton might yet be remedied.

"Later, I was in receipt of your circular telegrams dated the 9th and 10th respectively stating that the Tuchuns had approved of your proposal (for the immediate abolition of the Tuchunate system and the reduction of troops) as set forth in your former message under date of the 6th, that you in consequence resolved to proceed to Peking 'to function as President pro tem.' and that you left the problem regarding the status of the Presidency to be solved by the Parliament under reconvention.

"Thus, you admit yourself that you doubt the legality of your resumption of the Presidency, and your telegrams confirm my view in that connection as stated in the telegram dated the 3rd.

"It must be borne in mind that since the legality of your resumption of office, as you confess, has not yet been ascertained, you are at most a President de facto, but not a President de jure.

"I presume that the reason why you have undertaken to function as President pro tem. is because you deem it inexpedient to leave the Central Government headless. And I can readily understand your position in that regard.

"With respect to your proposal for the abolition of the Tuchunate and the reduction of troops, I advocated the same thing two years ago. Owing to the fact that my fellow Tuchuns had not awakened to the necessity of the scheme, my proposal became a 'bursting bubble.' If therefore, your proposal materialises, it will indeed be a blessing to the nation.

"When the Parliament is formally restored, and when a President is legally elected, the situation will be solved. I will then lay down my armor and return to my rice fields in accordance with my original desires. Should things turn out otherwise, I would ask how could you appease public indignation.

"Well runs a Chinese saying, 'A thousand "yeas" (uttered by the ignorant) are not so good as one "nay" (declared by the enlightened).' So please consider my sincere words."

Anglo-Chinese Society At Peking Entertains Dr. Koo

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 13.—There was a notable gathering on the shore of the Pei Hai inside the Palace Grounds yesterday afternoon when the Anglo-Chinese Society entertained Dr. Wellington Koo. The scene was very picturesque. Refreshment tables and chairs were placed on a spacious grassed plot facing the placid lake, the fine old trees and the Palace buildings in the rear giving shelter from the rays of the sun which were still fiery at five o'clock when the entertainment began. An efficient Chinese naval band played in a pavilion at the water's edge.

The Chinese and British flags flying side by side in that quarter of historic seclusion drew wondering glances from the Palace groundsmen and harmonised with the friendly spirit of the British and Chinese gathering, which numbered many hundreds of both sexes, including statesmen, diplomats and other distinguished personages.

Two modest-looking youths shared with Dr. Wellington Koo the attention of the visitors. They were Prince Pu Chieh, the brother of the ex-Emperor, and Prince Pu Chia, the son of Prince Tsai Tao, who were escorted by Mr. Johnston, the ex-Emperor's tutor, and were obviously enjoying this rare opportunity of participating in a real picnic among strangers.

In the absence of Sir Beilby Alston, who was suffering from eye trouble, Mr. R. H. Clive on behalf of the Society welcomed Mr. Koo who, he said, although so youthful in appearance, had earned an honored place at conferences in many lands.

Dr. Wellington Koo, replying felicitated the Society on bringing Chinese and Britons together in such a delightful way and emphasised the mutual benefit of co-operation between the two nations. The Chinese, he said, could learn much from England, particularly at present when China was in the process of vast reconstruction.

In past years he had addressed many international gatherings but never on a more pleasant occasion than this. He hoped that the Society would continue to cement the bonds of friendship between Britain and China, which he was glad to learn were visibly increasing.

Dr. Koo, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent, said that he did not want to take up the portfolio of Foreign Affairs. He wished first to return to England but he might come back to China in a few months.

New M.P.'s Object To Quitting Posts

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, June 13.—Upward of twenty new M.P.'s, who have been confining themselves to the House of Representatives, strongly refusing to hand over the Lower House to the M.P.'s of the Old Parliament, have been compelled to retire after receiving an ultimatum from the Ministry of the Interior, warning that if they should refuse to transfer the House to the M.P.'s of the Old Parliament, the Ministry would resort to a coercive measure. The new M.P.'s then sought an interview with President Li and had a hot discussion with the latter but to no purpose.

Finally, they appealed to Wu Ching-lien and Wang Chia-sheng, Chairman of the House of Representatives and President of the Senate, respectively, but the negotiations ended without any definite conclusion.

They are now burning with indignation and have, it is reported, issued a circular telegram to the country.

April Fire Alarms Highest On Record

Fire alarms in the month of April went to a total of 59, the highest monthly total on record as the highest previous number of calls in any one month was 55, in January this year. Of the 59 calls in the course of the month 48 originated from genuine fires, 43 of which occurred in the Settlement limits and 5 outside. The other 11 calls were false alarms. Damage to assessed property in the Settlement amounted to Tls. 40,820 while property at risk was estimated at Tls. 953,250. Nineteen buildings were destroyed and 35 were damaged.

Jailed For Theft From Maxted Home

A six months' jail term was meted out in the Mixed Court yesterday by British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yiu to a Chinese formerly employed as a servant in the home of Mr. H. W. Maxted, 6 Yang Terrace. The man was convicted of stealing goods valued at $300 from Mr. Maxted's home, while the latter was at Henli for the regatta. The Chinese was arrested in a stable in the French Concession and the stolen goods recovered in his bed. Finger prints on a broken window pane through which the intruders had gained access to the Maxted home, tallied with those of the prisoner.

Three Deported On Boat To Vladivostok

Following convictions in the Mixed Court, two Russians and an Esthonian were deported yesterday on the S. S. Tell for Vladivostok by Sub-Inspector Kay and Detective Sergeant Balchin. One of the Russians, W. A. Kliachin was charged with being a confirmed vagrant. Slavislava Felixovna Dzerakaya, a woman, was convicted of shoplifting, attempted to obtain a passport by false pretences, and returning from expulsion. An Esthonian girl, Maria Mooreseepp, had been convicted of being drunk and disorderly on several occasions.

HOW TO "GROW" A NEW COMPLEXION

These are the days of "hustling." In a week we see and do more than our grandmothers did in a year. We are gradually turning nature to be our servant; we use her great forces against herself. We have conquered sea and sky, now our doctors are fighting not only disease, but old age. There is talk of rejuvenating human beings by the injection of animal glands, but as yet, only the few can avail themselves of the treatment.

There is, however, one secret of perpetual youth that is in the reach of everyone. Scientists now realise that the only way of keeping the skin young and fresh is to examine Nature's methods and to find some way of imitating her.

SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY.

In order to explain the new method of keeping the complexion perpetually youthful, one must understand something of the nature of the skin. A baby's skin is always clear and smooth because the outer layer is always invisibly peeling off, and new layers are forming just as fast underneath, so that the exposed skin is always fresh, unwrinkled and "new."

For the first few years of our lives, this peeling is a purely natural process, but as we grow older, we gradually lose the power of throwing off our old soiled outer skins, so that our complexions become lined and yellow, and the new skin has no chance to show itself.

A few years ago, a scientific chemist realised that a little-known substance called mercolised wax, was exactly what was needed to "keep nature up to the mark." It appears that this substance, which is now universally obtainable, gently and painlessly assists nature in throwing off the soiled outer cuticle. The skin is thus perpetually renewed, and a clear youthful complexion can be preserved to any age. (Advt.)

the best water tender in the navy.

When one of the officers expatiated on the achievements of Bleam as a water tender, I had some vague idea that he could carry more buckets of water from one given point to another in the shortest possible time and with the smallest leakage. I conjured up visions of this hero of the pail scuttling back and forth, up and down companion ways, rushing hither, thither and yon through a useful life completely surrounded by pails of the w.k. aqua pura until his epitaph should be carved in marble or granite, "He never lost a drop."

But Bleam's more than six feet of navy developed muscle and good nature are not wasted on mere water-carrying. He is the star of the fire room where he is the No. 1 man.

"He is, probably, the hardest working man in the Navy," said one of the officers in speaking of this big fellow whose smile lights up this page. He is a real Talboter, too, for he is one of the 3 who are now on board who were on the ship when it was commissioned.

The officers of the Talbot give full measure of praise to their men. It is the esprit de corps that exists that makes every man believe his ship is the best ship. This is especially true of the Talbot, for the real democracy of the navy exists here between officers and men.

CONTENTMENT REIGNS

Ensign Harley W. Eaton, who draws clever little pictures when he isn't boosting the Talbot, and Ensign Harley J. Cope gave me a pithy resume of just what makes a ship best in the eyes of the gobs who sail it. The division doctor, Lieutenant Frank L. Hubbard, Lieutenant Pal L. Meadows and Ensign Norman O. Schwein listened in on the informal ward-room interview.

"A ship is best in the eyes of the men when it is a contented ship. Good chow, decent fair treatment and a regular fellow understanding between officers and men are the things that go toward making a ship contented. Some of the hardest working ships are among the 'best.' We judge whether content reigns or not by the discontent on other ships. Whenever a man says he wants to go over on such and such a ship, you can be sure that that ship is one of the best."

Maybe the fact that the squadron paymaster reigns aboard the Talbot is another reason for its popularity, too!

SERIOUS WATER SHORTAGE FELT IN HONGKONG

Kowloon Supply Partially Cut Off By Water Authority

A water shortage in Hongkong and Kowloon so serious as to make necessary a considerable curtailment of the supply is reported in Hongkong newspapers which have just reached Shanghai. Though there is at present no intention of limiting the water supply in Hongkong, the Water Authority has made an urgent appeal to the public to exercise the utmost economy in the use of water. With the exception of a few hours a day, the supply is being cut off at Yaumati, Sham Shui Po, Owloon City, Hunghom and Mong Kok, because of the shortage in the Kowloon reservoirs.

There has been an increase of 35 percent in water consumption in Kowloon since 1918, despite the fact that the population has not increased in anywhere near the same proportion. Last year at this season there were 552,000,000 gallons of water in the Kowloon Reservoir, while at present there are not 50,000,000 gallons. Whereas there were more than 2,000,000,000 gallons in storage in the City and Hill district last year, there are now a little more than 550,000,000.

Though the supply to Europeans in Kowloon has not been interfered with, it is expected that unless good rains come or the water consumption is considerably decreased, the whole of Kowloon will be partially cut off.

KIANGSU SOLONS HIT EXECUTIVES FOR BOND ISSUES

Maintain That $4,000,000 Issuance By Province Is Illegal

Serious controversy over the issuance of the proposed $4,000,000 worth of bonds by the Kiangsu Financial Bureau has taken place between the provincial authorities and the Kiangsu Provincial Assembly. The issuance which was proposed by the Kiangsu Financial Department was opposed by the legislature, which passed a resolution recently condemning the issue and warning the public against negotiating for same.

In response, the Civil Governor, Wang Hu, maintained the position that these bonds, for which the land tax has been offered for security, has been approved by a Cabinet meeting so he found it appropriate to exercise his veto power over the decision of the Assembly.

The Provincial Assembly, however, remain firm in its claim that the issue is illegal as the bonds are being issued by the provincial financial department instead of the Ministry of Finance. A strong denunciation has been made by the assembly and protests are expected to be filed by it with the federal authorities for the alleged illegal move on the part of the Kiangsu executives.

COLONIES CHIEF URGES PROGRAM OF DEVELOPMENT

E. L. Wood Sees Great Good From Prince's Trip

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—Presiding at a dinner of the Corona Club tonight, at which were present a distinguished company of Colonial Administrators and officials, Mr. E. L. Wood, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, urged the desirability of not arresting schemes for the development of the Colonies, whatever economy might be essential. He announced amid approving cheers that he had recommended to the Secretary of State that all future officials of the Colonial Office should be required to spend some period of time of instruction in one or other of the Colonies.

Referring especially to the Far East, Mr. Wood paid a glowing tribute to the service to the Empire rendered by the Prince of Wales's visits to the Dominions and the Colonies, which was a standing refutation of the doctrines of those who affected to regard monarchy as an effete institution. He declared that there was no part of the Empire for which those at home felt greater sympathy than the Federated Malay States, who in their days of prosperity gave generously to the Mother Country and on whom days of adversity had fallen with exceptional severity. He wished that he could say that he saw an end to their difficulties. The difficulties of the rubber industry had been engaging the continuous attention of the Committee under Sir James Stephenson, the result of whose labors, Mr. Wood believed, would assist in creating happier conditions for the trade.

The Colonial Under-Secretary paid a tribute to the determination with which the Governor and officials at Hongkong had dealt with the seamen's strike.

TEARS FOR DOOMED MAN

As the last words of the sentence were given Wei's wife and two little children began to cry silently, their heads bowed and Wei turned to watch them with a blank stare. Then he stretched to his full six feet, whisked his silk jacket off over his head and poised it in the air. Two Chinese detectives moved in closer toward him. But Wei calmly tossed his silk jacket—the only thing of value he had left—to his wife, and then turned to face the bench with his powerful arms folded. It was the most dramatic incident that has occurred in the Mixed Court in many months and even hardened court 'fans' in attendance watched the big, powerful man and his now audibly crying family before he was taken back to his cell.

His wife and two little girls, tears streaming down their faces stumbled outside the courtroom carrying Wei's last possession, his silk jacket. Outside they stood near the prison van that was to convey him back to the Bubbling Well police station moaning and crooning while a crowd of curious Chinese gathered about chattering. Then the prison van with the doomed man rolled away and the sobbing wife and children, after gazing at it as long as it remained in sight, moved off, swinging from side to side, crying and moaning.

SHANGHAI DEFEATS 38TH DIVISION BY BUNCHING OF HITS; SCORE WAS 4 TO 1

Scott Holds Sailors To One Hit; Hopkins Homers With Two On

Shanghai bunched hits in the third inning of the game yesterday afternoon with the nine of the 38th Division, which coupled with the heady pitching of Scott kept the score down to 4-1 in the locals' favor. The navy men got but one hit, a homer to center in the sixth by J. Placencia, the Filipino second sacker. Shanghai also started its scoring with a homer, a low drive to the same field by Hopkins in the third when two men were on.

Shanghai fumbled and bungled several times during the play, but Scott always had a little in reserve and when needed he tightened up so that but few balls got out of the infield and the rest were easily caught. Excepting of course that drive of Placencia's for the circuit and one that Campbell muffed.

The local pitcher was in a bad hole in the third inning when a boot by Thatch, followed by Lake's muff of the late throw to first, and a dropped fly in center field by Campbell of a fairly easy one put two men on base. A sharp double play, Thatch to Bills to Lake on the next grounder helped the situation out though Placencia advanced to third on the play. Thatch came through again on the next play for an easy throw-out to first. It was the only inning in which Shanghai was seriously threatened. But for Placencia's homer in the sixth the game would have been a no-run, no-hit affair.

The two new men, Lake and Thatch showed to good advantage in spite of the errors charged against them. They both retrieved themselves immediately by excellent fielding and showed some promising style with the stick. They will likely be used in the local line-up whenever they show for games.

The game which was scheduled for this afternoon between the 37th Division and the 38th Division has been cancelled. The next item on the program will be the game tomorrow between Shanghai and the Flagship Huron which arrived here yesterday. The Huron this year is reported to have a nine even stronger than that which played last year and beat the local team. Captain Hopkins will have to get his men out for hard practice work against the big team in preparation for the big Championship ex game on the Fourth.

BELYEA OUT OF HENLEY RACES; HOOVER MAY WIN

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—At a meeting of the Henley Regatta Stewards in London yesterday evening, the Secretary reported that the entries of the Marne Club for the Grand Challenge Cup and of Belyea, the Canadian champion, for the Diamond Challenge Sculls were not in order, the necessary papers in accordance with Rule 4, which defines the term, amateur, according to the Amateur Rowing Association ideas, not having been received.

The failure of the Canadian sculler to give evidence of his bona fides is not surprising as he doubtless recognised the fact that he has no chance against Hoover, the American crack, who recently defeated him in Philadelphia.

It is thought possible that the failure of the French eight to complete their entry is due to a movement in France to recognise the National Amateur Rowing Association as the governing body of rowing in Great Britain.

MIXED DOUBLES TENNIS TITLE WON BY MRS. ELMORE AND MR. PARBURY--6-0, 6-4

Mrs. Enticknap And Mr. Sturton Get Into Game Too Late; Play Second Set Well

Mrs. J. Elmore and Mr. L. Parbury won the Mixed Doubles Championship of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association yesterday afternoon at the Country Club over Mrs. Enticknap and Mr. T. W. Sturton, in two straight sets, 6-0, 6-4. The first set, in spite of the love score was not without considerable clever and strong opposition from the losers. The second set was well contested throughout.

The winning pair played a superior game throughout the match. In the first set they got into the game earlier than their opponents, and by the third game when Mrs. Enticknap and Mr. Sturton were getting down to tournament tennis, they had the edge on them [illegible] second set was more difficult for the winners, though by strong tactics they managed to win out.

The match started with Mrs. Elmore and Mr. Parbury taking the first and second games easily. The third went to two deuces before it was decided. There was less opposition in the next three games due to wildness and the set was closed at six love.

Mrs. Enticknap and Mr. Sturton had the first game of the second set to 40-30, when the new champion brought it to even honors on the next stroke. Two deuces followed when Mrs. Elmore and Parbury took the game by a sharp drive.

The second game found Mrs. Enticknap and her partner without a point. They came into the match in the next game when after a 30-all score, they took the next two points. The fourth, fifth and sixth games were easy for Mrs. Elmore and Parbury.

The seventh saw some strong tennis. The game went to the second deuce before it was won by Mrs. Enticknap and Mr. Sturton. The pair followed with an easy win of the 8th and after keen opposition took the succeeding game, bringing the score to 5-4 in Mrs. Elmore's and Mr. Parbury's favor.

The last, or tenth game found Mrs. Enticknap and Mr. Parbury scoring the first point, when their opponents ran out on them thus

LI TELLS WHY HE ACCEPTED, AND ASKS SUPPORT

Proposes Disarming Of At Least Half Of Soldiery

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 14.—A mandate issued this morning announcing General Li Yuan-hung's reinstatement as President says:

"In recent years the country has suffered from grievous ills and the people have been subjected to misery time and again. Recently communications have reached me from the two Houses of Parliament and educational, agricultural and commercial institutions requesting me to resume the Presidency in view of the dangerous conditions prevailing. The obvious sincerity of these requests made it impossible for me to decline and accordingly I came to Peking and took over the duties of the President on June 11. I shall do my utmost to act in the interests of the country and the people and I trust that my civil and military colleagues will assist me to the extent of their power."

The Waichiaopu has not notified the foreign Ministers of President Li Yuan-hung's reinstatement, but will probably officially communicate the above mandate, for the only notification the Diplomatic Corps received when Mr. Hsu Shih-chang retired was the official communication of his retirement mandate.

President Li proposes disbanding at least half of the soldiery, allowing the Provinces only one Mixed Brigade and one regiment each, the remainder of the forces becoming the National Army.

With regard to the problem of providing employment for the disbanded troops, the Government points out that while road and railway construction will absorb practically all ex-soldiers this plan involves a heavy outlay, for which arrangements have not yet been made.

As a preliminary, however, the President has telegraphed to the militarists, urging abandonment of aggressive policies and co-operation with the Government towards reunification.

The following appointments are expected this afternoon: Mr. Sun Tan-lin to be Vice-Minister of the Interior and Mr. Chiang Tien-to Vice-Minister of Commerce, with Mr. Li Cheng as Director of the Wine and Tobacco Bureau.

FREEMAN TAKES STAND IN SUIT OVER BUILDING

Changes In Plans Due To Negligence In Making Survey, Charge

Testimony by Mr. Thomas Freeman occupied the greater part of yesterday's session of the British Supreme Court where the suit brought by Mrs. Freeman against Messrs. Cumine and Milne, architects, for the recovery of Tls. 4,000 on alleged faulty construction of a house at 2 Route de Say Zoong is being heard.

Mr. Freeman, examined by Mr. N. Langley Smith, told how he had approached the defendants in company with his wife when it was first proposed to construct the house, and how the plans, as submitted by the architects, were finally approved with alterations.

Work on the building commenced September 21, and it was thought that the building would be directly on the road. This was explained by the defendants who told Mrs. Freeman that despite her original plans to have a small garden in front of the house they had decided that it would be better not to leave any land in front as the French Municipal Council might claim it.

Before the foundations were laid, Mr. Freeman wrote a letter to the defendants asking them to make a survey of the property. A few days later, the defendants asked for the title deeds. It was explained that these were with the lawyers, and that with regard to measurement the defendants might go to the Municipal Council. The next thing that happened was the encroachment, and witness told the contractor that if the Municipal Council had told him that the house was encroaching on the Municipal road he had better put the building back. The contractor replied that the defendants had told him to carry on. The encroachment was reported when the building was five or six feet high. The contractor added that Cumine and Milne were stronger than the Municipal Council.

A few days later both Cumine and Milne came to the witness and told him that the building was encroaching the road a little, and had given orders, in the presence of the witness to put the building back. Witness asked whether the foundations would not have to be altered, and the reply was in the negative. Asked whether the encroachment would make any difference to the size of the rooms, the architets said it would not, as the encroachment was one of a few inches.

After the concrete floor was laid he saw a mason chalking where the rooms were to be built, and he measured and found that the rooms were too small. Witness then wrote a letter to the defendants asking them to come and measure the rooms.

The next morning witness met Milne on the site, and Milne said he had measured the rooms and there was only one room that was short. Mrs. Freeman replied if that room was short she could not stand for it, and insisted that the rooms should be made according to the plan. Cumine replied that if Mrs. Freeman insisted on wanting the rooms according to plan the building would have to be pulled down. Mrs. Freeman said: "In that case pull the house that the rooms would be according to this plan."

On the same day, November 17, the contractor came in for payment but witness did not pay him because he wanted a guarantee that the rooms would be according to plan. Witness wrote a letter to Cumine and Milne mentioning that he could not see his way to paying the bill unless they guaranteed that the rooms would be made according to plan. On the same day the contractor was trying to explain to witness how the mistake was made. He said that it was not his fault, but that of the defendants.

The defendants wrote a letter to witness saying that they could not give a written guarantee that the rooms would be of the same size, and stated that as far as they could see the rooms would be of the same size except for one room and mentioned that at the time of the survey they were not guided by the title deeds. They added that if the certificate of demand was not honored the contract would be in abeyance. Witness paid the instalment as he desired to fulfil his part of the contract. Witness went down to the office of the defendants on November 23, and Mr. Cumine pointed out to Mrs. Freeman that if she wanted the alteration she would have to pay for it. Mrs. Freeman maintained that the house should be built according to specification, and Mr. Cumine replied that the specification meant nothing. Mrs. Freeman turned round and said: "If this is the principle you work on the best thing is to take it to court." Mr. Cumine replied: "Well, you can take it to Court and see what you can get out of it."

4,000 Casualties, Says Chinese Reports

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, June 12.—The Fengtien troops under the command of Generals Sun Lieh-chen, Chang Hsueh-liang and Chang Tso-hsiang, after enticing the Chihli troops into a narrow passage by a cunning plan, rained shells upon them. Some two brigades of the Fengtien troops gave chase to the defeated Chihli force as far as the vicinity of Chinwangtao but did not advance any further.

The Fengtien troops are now strengthening their position more than ever and making precautionary preparations against possible attack from the Chihli force.

It is reported in Chinese quarters that in the recent battle the Fengtien troops gained a sweeping victory with the consequence that some 4,000 Chihli soldiers were killed and wounded. The Fengtien forces also seized 15 big-guns, 25 machine-guns, many rifles and plenty of ammunition in addition to 400 prisoners. It is also reported that out of five Chihli batallions, two batallions were annihilated, while on the part of the Fengtien troops it appears there are not a few casualties. From last night till this morning, more than 100 seriously wounded Fengtien soldiers were transported here from the battle field.

It is said that as a result of the victory of the Fengtien troops Chinese flags are being witnessed throughout the streets of Shanhaikwan.

NO MASSACRE

(China Press Service)

London, June 13.—Official statement says that the report of the massacre of British soldiers in the Dardanelles is not true.

WOMEN'S WRONGS

They do not have a Fair Chance.

One of the greatest surgeons said that he never went to bed without feeling thankful for not having been born a woman. A woman's health handicaps her, almost always. She has pains and disabilities which do not afflict men. Nature does not give her a fair chance. Her blood is more thin and poor than a man's and she neglects the first beginnings of ill-health.

Many women who seemed destined to a life of frequent suffering have been freed entirely from the ailments of their sisters through the wonderful blood-making qualities of Dr. Williams' pink pills. Women make too light of their troubles. Many a housewife toils all day with a pain in her back and side, a burning headache, and a sense of having no spine left. So much depends upon her that she refuses, with courage that is often heroic, to give up. What a pity that women will not listen to their friends whom Dr. Williams' pink pills have saved from this misery. These pills ought to be taken in the first years of womanhood: they may make all the difference to the health of a lifetime. But whenever a woman suffers they will help her—in youth, middle-age, and after-life.

If you are not fit, Dr. Williams' pink pills will help you to health. Get a supply now from any dealer, or send $1.50 for one bottle, or $8 for six bottles, to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, June 5.—A prominent American financier interviewed by a correspondent of Le Temps declares that the United States will probably now participate in the discussion of questions pertaining to the economic reconstruction of Europe.

America is going to propose a broad economic program and will suggest the convocation of a new conference, putting as a main condition sincerity of Europe in the reconstruction problem, as no sincerity, confidence or seriousness was shown at Genoa, which was nothing but a political game.

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, June 5.—Signor Shanzer in an interview on the Russo-Italian commercial agreement states that Europe is aware of the urgent necessity of giving Russia her proper place in the economic life of Europe.

According to him, further delay in settling the Russian problem is inadmissible. The allies know the existing conditions in Russia, and the apprehensions of the United States as to the validity of Russian guarantees are somewhat exaggerated, says Signor Shanzer.

Blood Poisoning

Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again I went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

It was said that True actually tried to form such a club during one period in jail. He also suggested a 'Duds Club' to be made up of people who had failed at murder.

WIFE FINDS STRANGE WILL

Mrs. True, who stood by her husband all through the trial, testified that she had found a will among his papers which left their son to another woman to bring up as her own son.

Mr. M. V. Morgan, a student at the Middle Temple, who was with True in the flying service testified that when True had won his wings he had a special pair made three times the ordinary size and of varigated colors.

John G. Thompson, who met True at Targua, Gold Coast Colony, in 1918, said that True had told him he was going to fly across France, the Mediterranean and the Sahara in his own airplane. He used to play about with the blacks, according to the witness. The natives described him as "the massa who lives with his mammy (wife) and what is sick in the head."

Frank Sims of Trowbridge described how True used to go about in a bath chair at Portsmouth with a number of toys he played with. One was a monkey with an Irishman's green hat on. Another was a black retriever dog, with a little bulb at the end of its tail which squeaked when True pressed it. He also had a toy cat with an elongated neck.

"DREAM CHILDREN"

An orderly at a Southsea nursing home testified that when True was a patient there he would lie for hours with a blank stare on his face. On one occasion, he said, True stood on the seashore tossing pennies into the water and crying: "Come on children, go for them." There were no children within a mile of the place.

Mrs. Eric Wilson testified that she had met True at a dance at Murray's Club and that he swore that there would be trouble if she danced with anyone else although he himself did not dance because of an injury to his hip received in an air crash. She also testified that he had once told her:

"I will murder somebody one of these days. You watch the papers. I am certain I shall get off and I want to try it out."

Mrs. Angus, True's aunt who gave startling evidence concerning his penchant for fortune-tellers, including the story of the Shanghai fortune teller who told True he would be killed 'for a woman', also told of how True had told her he had once had an all-day fight with a German in Mexico over a piece of land. An Indian had assisted him and together they had killed him and staked out their claim in his blood.

Despite True's conviction and sentence to death the defence, on the insanity evidence they introduced, secured a reprieve from the death sentence, which is now causing considerable agitation in the London newspapers who charge that strong influence has been brought to bear on the authorities because True is the illegitimate son of a titled woman.

The argument on the insanity plea made by the defense occupied the entire morning of the last day of the trial, according to the London newspapers.

Sir Richard Muir, K.C. (for the Crown), argued that, although there was definite disease of the mind and delusions yet a man might be held in law not to be insane.

The judge observed that it must depend on the nature of the delusions and the extent to which they operated, otherwise a trivial delusion might enable a man to escape punishment he deserved. Unduly to relax the doctrine of the law on criminal responsibility would expose society to many and great perils.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC

"That, I think," the judge added, "is the true reason for the firmness of the law in dealing with this matter. It is not that judges and juries lack mercy, but they are here to protect the public. I make these comments because I do not want it to be thought that the law is wanting in tenderness for those suffering from grave mental disease.

"The more I study the subject the more embarrassing to my mind is the serious conflict of both legal and medical opinion."

Sir Richard Muir: If that is the state of your lordship's mind, how necessary it becomes that some plain and simple rule should be adhered to for the guidance of juries.

Mr. Justice McCardie: The fact is, insanity is so intricate a matter and presents so many features that no one simple rule may be adequate to meet the needs of varying cases.

So serious had the lack of a clear definition of insanity become, his lordship added, that he thought it desirous the House of Lords should determine the tests to be applied at the present.

Opening his speech for the defence, Sir Henry Curtis-Bennett, K. C., said he assumed the jury would come to the conclusion that the hand which killed Olive Young was the hand of the prisoner. The real issue was whether at the time the act was committed the prisoner was insane in the legal sense.

"If you come to the conclusion that he was guilty but insane," he continued, "there is no fear at all that he would be loosed upon society.

"It would be an appalling disaster if all the great mechanism of the law in this country should have to be exercised to destroy the life of a man who is in fact merely to be pitied because of these infirmities. It is an extraordinary position that a judge and jury should have been engaged for five days in trying whether or not a man, whom four doctors (two of them Government officials) said was insane, should be sent to the gallows or declared as an insane person."

Sir Richard Muir, replying for the prosecution, said he thought all the facts showed the prisoner, eccentric as he might have been, insane if he was, yet sufficiently sane to know he was murdering the woman, that the act was crime, that he was doing wrong, and that he was not acting under any insane impulse or delusion at the time.

Mr. Justice McCardie in his summing-up, which lasted just over an hour, put the following questions to the jury:

(1) Did the prisoner destroy the life of Gertrude Yates?

(2) Did he at the time suffer from mental disease?

(3) Did he at the time suffer from such defective reason from diseases of the mind that the did not know the physical nature and quality of the act?

(4) Did he know that what he was doing was morally wrong, according to the standard of his fellow citizens?

The Judge pointed out that insanity from the medical point of view was one thing, and another from the point of view of criminal law. Some things plainly were not insanity. Mere love of bloodshed was not of itself insanity, nor was boastfulness, nor mere eccentricity.

"I want to put this question to you," said the Judge. "Was there mental disease? Unless there was mental disease there cannot be insanity within the meaning of the English criminal law."

He thought counsel for the defence had rather under-estimated the weight of the evidence of the existence in this case of insanity as a mental disease.

The jury had to consider whether the delusions prisoner was said to be suffering from were invention—boastfulness sprang from the morphia habit—or whether they were true delusions.

The doctors said True was certifibly insane now, and when the crime was committed, but the jury had to consider whether he was insane at the time of the commission of the offence within the meaning of the criminal law.

"I need scarcely say," the judge remarked, 'that this case has given me much anxiety, because of the conflict which has existed in the past, and perhaps, exists at the present as to the law."

Even if the prisoner knew the physical nature of the act, and that it was morally wrong and punishable by law, yet was by mental disease deprived of the power to control his actions, then, in his view, the verdict should be "Guilty, but insane." This "exemption" should be applied with great care. It would never do to diminish unduly the doctrine of responsibility for a criminal act.

He should leave to the jury the point, did defendant take the life of Miss Yates while in an actual epileptic seizure? If the answer was in the affirmative then the verdict should be "Guilty, but insane."

"I want you to remember," the Judge concluded, "that while on the one side you may well desire that no man who is insane shall be found guilty of wilful murder, yet, on the other hand, I want you to realise if a man be not actually insane within the meaning of the English criminal law it is vital that a jury should vindicate the law with iron firmness."

BONNINGTON IS FOUND; LONDON MYSTERY ENDS

Shanghai Man Who Disappeared Suddenly In Metropolis Reappears

London newspapers of recent date bring out the fact that Mr. J. H. Bonnington, formerly an employe of the Shanghai Tramways Company, who disappeared mysteriously on December 27, 1921, shortly after his arrival in England, has been found. Newspaper reports differ, however, as to the cause of Mr. Bonnington's disappearance and what transpired during the five months while the police of Scotland Yard were endeavoring in vain to find him. He was finally located at a Church Army Hut in London, where he had been living in extremely reduced circumstances.

Mr. Bonnington came to Shanghai originally to enter the services of the tramways company, but after four months was taken ill and is now on a year's leave of absence. While here, he lived at 12A Quinsan Gardens.

The story of his disappearance just two weeks after he arrived in England and registered at the Hotel Belgravia, Victoria, S. W., was carried at some length in all of the London newspapers. He had offered no explanation for his sudden departure and left his baggage, including a number of valuable Chinese curios at the Hotel. All efforts to trace him proved futile.

According to the London Daily News, Mr. Bonnington, when found at the Army Hut, refused an explanation of his actions.

"I have never changed my name and have done nothing wrong," he is quoted as saying. "All that I want now is to avoid public advertisement."

The Daily Express, however, quotes him as saying that he was a victim of foul play.

"While visiting in the East End on December 22," he is said to have told the Express reporter, "I was hustled by a crowd of roughs and robbed of a wallet which contained all my money and securities. All I had left was about £2, and as I hardly liked to go back to the hotel until I was in funds again I have been subsisting as best as I could ever since. I wrote at once to Shanghai informing them of my plight and have been expecting a remittance. I have had rather a rough time of it, chopping wood, addressing circulars, and doing anything else that came to hand."

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 14, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ½d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 72¼ cents, and the London-New York cross rate declined to 446½.

The official Sterling rate here today was raised to 3-6½, the Gold Dollar rate to 79¼, the Franc rate to 900, and the Yen rate dropped to 60½.

Our market was firm throughout the morning.

Due to the severe drop in the London-New York cross rate, speculators were rather keen sellers of Sterling.

There were sellers at practically all times throughout the day at 3-7⅛ for any delivery up to August.

Gold Dollars were done at about yesterday's level, there being sellers at 80⅜ for June July and 80¼ for August.

Due to the very severe drop in the cross rate, Francs here were almost unsalable. Some Franc T.T. business was put through at 915, but banks were not keen to quote any buying rates.

India and China both bought silver in London yesterday, and the market is reported as closing firm.

New York report their market as steady.

Providence, R. I., June 13.—National Guard troops are being rushed from the strike in Pawtucket Valley villages to the Flat River reservoir in the town of Coventry.

"Save Us From Our Friends"

It is not an uncommon occurrence for men to appeal to be saved from their friends, nor is it uncommon for the friends to desire sincerely to be saved from the men; but cases where both the men desire to be saved from their friends and the friends assuredly, or should assuredly, desire to be saved from them are not quite so common. A case has arisen at Vladivostok and in the Maritime Province, however. It will be remembered that when the American and Allied forces were withdrawn from the Russian Far East over two years ago the Japanese Government declined to withdraw its troops on the ground that the Japanese residents in that region were not safe, and needed protection. Point was given to this contention by the use made of the Nikolaievsk incident.

The point to which attention is being called now is that the Japanese troops were retained in the Russian Far East mainly to protect the Japanese population. It was recently stated in a Japanese paper that the number of Japanese throughout the Russian Far East, with the exception of Vladivostok, at the time of the Allied expedition to Siberia was about five hundred, that the Japanese population increased to some two thousand as the result of the intervention, and that at the present time the number of Japanese residents in places not occupied by Japanese troops is probably not more than four or five hundred. Of course, the greatest single community of Japanese is concentrated at Vladivostok, and in the Maritime Province the proportion of Japanese to Russian residents is higher than elsewhere.

To protect the lives, properties and interests of this comparative handful of Japanese residents, two divisions of troops are being retained in the Maritime Province. One would think that the Japanese residents would be grateful to their government for such solicitude on their behalf, but as a matter of fact the attitude of these people is, "Please save us from our friends!" They do not want protecting; they want to go home. A few weeks ago the leading Japanese residents in the place held a meeting and decided that the best thing they could do would be to evacuate the place themselves, whether the Japanese troops did so or not. They have set out their reasons for this decision, and a study of the list of grounds on which these residents, for the protection of whom two divisions of the Japanese army are at this moment retained in the Maritime Province, have thus decided to withdraw has been set out at length. There is no need to give these reasons in full, for they have been pretty widely published, but we may note that in the main they may be reduced to one simple statement, namely, that if the Japanese troops are retained in the Maritime Province a state of disturbance is inevitable throughout the period of their stay and in this state of disturbance the Japanese traders and merchants, for whose benefit the said troops are supposed to be retained in the Province, can do no business; and, if the Japanese troops are withdrawn, the way in which they have conducted themselves during the period of occupation has been such as to exasperate the whole Russian population, White or Red, against everything Japanese to such a pitch that the Japanese inhabitants do not feel they will be safe.

If ever a hollow pretence was exposed, the pretence on which the Japanese forces were and are retained on the mainland of Asia has been. The very people whom those forces are supposed to protect now say, "We don't want protecting, we want to go home" for your methods of protection have made it impossible for us to stay here whether you stay to protect us or not." If the Japanese residents in Vladivostok persist in any large numbers in carrying out the resolution to which they have come, they will have contributed very materially to the settlement of the problem of the Maritime Province, for if there are practically no Japanese settlers to protect, there can be no excuse whatever for retaining troops to protect them.

We cannot imagine any greater condemnation of Japanese methods than is implied in this decision of the Japanese residents in Vladivostok. Mr. Hughes, in one of his speeches during the Washington Conference, gave it as his considered opinion that the presence of Japanese troops in the Russian Far East had aggravated rather than allayed any feelings of unrest, and that the Japanese at Nikolaievsk had simply got what they had asked for. (Of course, Mr. Hughes did not put it as bluntly as that, but that is what it amounted to.) Now, Mr. Hughes's opinion is more than confirmed by the Japanese residents of Vladivostok themselves. The decision that they have taken is a complete justification of Mr. Hughes's remarks, a most completely damning indictment of the whole Japanese policy in Siberia, and such a warning to the Japanese Government as it should feel to be extremely dangerous to disregard.

CHUCKLES IN COURT

A husband was asked in the Bow County Court if he would curb his wife's temper and save quarrels in the house.

Husband (earnestly): "I certainly will."

Wife (reflectively): "And he will be busy."

THE TRIER

Judge Cluer (rubbing his hands) at Shoreditch: "This is the kind of witness we like to hear; he is telling the truth—so far as he can."

HIS STOCK

Asked if he had a good stock, a general dealer, appearing at Bow, said: "Yes, a wife, six children, a mother-in-law, a grandmother, a cat, and four kittens."

ANTI-WAIST

A solicitor offered to make the payment of a debt easy for a girl, and said: "I don't want to press you."

The girl: "And I'll see that you don't!"

HER FAUIT

Asked a woman's character in the Bow County Court, another woman said:

"Well, to tell you the truth, she isn't liked in the street—she pays her rent regularly."

NO PLACE FOR HER

A woman charged with a minor offence became so indignant that she walked out of the dock, declaring: "I refuse to stop here to listen to such lies."

She was gently but firmly led back to the dock.

NEXT MONTH

"Paid your tailor's bill yet?" asked a friend.

"Can't," replied the young man.

"Paid the florist?"

"Quite impos."

"What about your motoring bill?"

"They're still sending it in."

"If you can't pay for your own living," exclaimed his friend, in disgust, "why don't you be decent enough to die?"

"And then run up an undertaker's bill?" retorted the young man. "My dear chap, there's a limit!"

A SONG

Ladies, though to your conquering eyes
Love owes his chiefest victories,
And borrows those bright arms from you
With which he does the world subdue,
Yet you yourselves are not above
The empire nor the griefs of love.
Then rack not lovers with disdain,
Lest love on you revenge their pain;
You are not free because you're fair,
The Boy did not his Mother spare;
Beauty's but an offensive dart,
It is not armor for the heart.
—Sir George Etherege (1635)

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

For her thirteenth birthday Doris had received a present of a cheque from father. She took it to the bank, where the cashier told her to endorse the cheque. Taking up a pen, she wrote on the back, "I heartily endorse this cheque."

THE RESCUE

She was slim, beautiful, fragile and alone. Her expression of wistful sadness struck a note of appeal. She looked as though she wanted some one big and strong to protect her. Someone big and strong, in point of fact, was dining alone at the next table.

He had noted her apparent loneliness as well as her beauty. His heart was big. He longed to talk to her to comfort her. Suddenly she pulled out an absurd little handkerchief and buried her face in it. Her shoulders and bosom shook as she succumbed to some pent up emotion. Tears streamed down her face. Her distress smote him. He could restrain himself no longer. Like a knight of old hastening to the rescue of a lady fair, he went to her side.

"What is the matter, little woman?" he inquired tenderly. "Can I help you?"

"I've taken too much cayenne p-p-p-pepper," she sobbed.

Money And Markets

(Issued by the National Bank of Commerce in New York, May 19.)

Now that business improvement is definitely under way, the foremost problem is that of gauging the rate of expansion and its ultimate limit for a reasonable period ahead. Production should not be recklessly increased but should expand in relation to a carefully tested market.

In connection with the course of events during the next few months, two factors are worthy of consideration; namely the extent to which output is now below normal and the outlook for exports.

The difficulties of determining what is a normal output are obvious. Population has increased by nearly one-fifth since 1910, and the war irregularly affected the expansion of the various industries, so that any standard of measure which may be set up is necessarily arbitrary. At the same time, it is the consensus of business judgment that activities during the latter part of 1919 and the opening months of 1920 were above normal, and that operations during the latter part of 1920 and throughout 1921 were below normal, and that a safe rate of production for the United States lies at some point between these extremes.

The Harvard Economic Service has endeavored to establish a normal rate for manufactures and to compare production with it from 1919 to date. The results of this work indicate that at no time during the depression, the lowest point being July, 1921, was the volume of manufactures in the United States lower than 70 percent of normal. During that month, according to the same source, a sharp upturn took place, and gains since that time have been fairly steady, the manufacturing output of the country at present being perhaps nearly 95 percent of normal. Other studies carried on along different lines have shown similar results, but indicate a somewhat lower current rate of operations.

The experience in the recent past of business generally may raise a question as to the accuracy of these estimates, but they have support in several directions. There has unquestionably been much unemployment in the United States, but despite this fact, consumption has on the whole been well maintained. What is more convincing evidence, the amount of actual suffering caused by men being out of work has been relatively unimportant compared with preceding depression of apparently much less severity, and in most districts savings bank deposits either have been maintained or have increased.

The conclusion is inevitable that unemployment has not been as widespread as has been indicated by published estimates or by popular opinion. Excess stocks of all kinds have been generally disposed of, stocks of some classes of goods are adequate, and manufacturing output in a number of lines is fairly well adjusted to demand.

In the face of these facts, the outlook for American exports of all classes is of vital importance. Attention has been called repeatedly to the fact that exports of agricultural products, with the exception of cotton, have been well maintained. The consuming countries are gradually increasing their own agricultural production but they are also improving their purchasing power, so that exports of American food products will probably continue in satisfactory volume. Cotton exports already show notable gains, and as business gradually improves there is no question that the international market will demand increasing amounts. Gradual resumption of business activities throughout the world will in time take care of American surpluses of other raw materials.

From the standpoint of the immediate business future and likewise from the standpoint of that group of American labor which is as yet unemployed or only partly employed, the outlook for exports of manufactured goods is especially important, and it is in this field that there are now notable grounds for encouragement. In March exports of manufactured goods from the United States amounted to $153,000,000, the largest since April, 1921. No details are as yet available for April, 1922. During March exports of those iron and steel products which are reported on a tonnage basis amounted to 208,843 tons, compared with 133,975 tons in February, 1922 and 230,635 tons in March, 1921. Taken in connection with broadening inquiries and an improved export outlook as reported by the largest iron and steel producers, the evidence seems to be conclusive that the American manufacturers in these lines can successfully compete in the world's markets and that those markets are reviving. Export results are encouraging in other directions. Exports of automobiles, trucks and tractors are increasing. There is a broadening inquiry for cotton textiles in those countries to which the United States has normally exported. Exports of those specialties for which the United States has long been noted, such as typewriters, dental supplies and similar types of equipment, are all being well maintained with an outlook for an increased volume.

Thus while on the one hand it is evident that production must be increased carefully so as to avoid the risk of overloading the domestic market, the consuming power of which may easily be overestimated, there is evidence on the other hand that foreign markets will take care of a period of relatively stable and satisfactory business.

Proving And Showing The Earth's Rotation

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"I like reading your articles very much, and I want to ask if there are any ways of illustrating that the earth moves? I have heard that it is demonstrated in some of the colleges abroad by means of a huge pendulum."

What you have evidently heard of is the "Foucault pendulum," which seventy-one years ago furnished, with great eclat, the first experimental proof of the earth's daily rotation on its axis. No such proof was really needed to satisfy scientific men, or even the general intelligent public, that the earth did turn on its axis from west to east once every twenty-hours, for it had long been recognised that the apparent motion of the stars from east to west, at the regular rate of fifteen degrees per hour, or one complete revolution in twenty-four hours, was only reasonable to be explained as a relativity effect of the earth's rotation around its axis in the other direction.

For those who knew a little more about astronomy a beautiful confirmation was found in the fact that the sun seems to move eastward nearly one degree per day, because of the earth's revolution around him in a period of 365 days; the result of this daily eastward advance of the sun being that the earth has to turn through about one degree more than a full circle in order to bring the sun back on the meridian. Thus the period of the earth's rotation as measured by the position of the sun is about four minutes longer than when measured with reference to a fixed star.

However, there has never been a time when "doubting Thomases" and "men from Missouri"—and very useful they sometimes prove themselves, too—have not existed, and so even the scientific world was immensely interested when, in 1851, a celebrated French physicist named Fourcault turned the great dome of the Panthelon in Paris into an enormous demonstrating room, where he undertook to show all doubters, by the direct evidence of their own eyes, that the great earth turns infinitely more softly and immensely more swiftly than any flywheel constructed by man.

He did it with a heavy pendulum suspended from the center of the dome by a steel wire 200 feet long, and so arranged that there would be no force interfering to change the plane in which the pendulum swung after once it was started. Being set in motion the pendulum kept swinging in the same unchanging vertical plane as long as the oscillation continued. On the floor of the Pantheon Foucault arranged a circle of fine sand, so placed that at each end of its swing the pendulum bob traced a line in the sand.

As the crowds of enthused spectators watched the great pendulum slowly swinging, hour after hour, night and day, they saw (with fascinated attention when its meaning was pointed out to them) that with every swing the sand advanced a certain distance to the right of the next preceding line, and thus in the course of about 32 hours a complete circle of evenly spaced lines, like the graduations of a mathematical instrument, was produced.

Now, this was caused by the earth's rotation, and to see how that can be, it is only necessary to imagine yourself standing on the North Pole and swinging a pendulum across the pole in an unchangingly vertical plane. It is evident that the rotation of the earth must cause the pole to turn round under the pendulum so that the plane of swing, if each oscillation made a separate mark, would be seen to make a revolution in the opposite direction.

The same thing occurs no matter where on the earth's surface the pendulum is swung—except at the equator where there would be no tendency for the plane of vibration to revolve. At the pole the time of revolution of the pendulum would be just 24 hours, agreeing exactly with the rotation period of the earth. At any place between pole and equator the time increases with approach to the equator.

There is a simple formula to calculate the time for any latitude, but its demonstration could not very well be given here. The formula simply requires that 24 hours be divided by the sine of the latitude, the quotient giving the time in which the pendulum would make one complete horizontal turn with reference to the ground beneath it.

To illustrate this, take the case of Paris itself, where the first demonstration was given. The latitude of Paris is 48 deg. 50 min., and the sine of that angle is 0.7528. Dividing 24 hours by this we get about 32 hours 50 minutes. At New York the time is about 36 hours 40 minutes. At Petrograd about 28 hours. At the City of Mexico more than 72 hours.

Since Foucault's time the experiment has been tried quite often with smaller apparatus, but the results are always confirmatory. Foucault himself furnished another similar demonstration of the earth's rotation by means of the gyroscope, which he invented.

Senawang Estate Meeting

A meeting of members of the Senawang Rubber Estate Company, Ltd. (in voluntary liquidation) was held yesterday at 10 Canton Road.

Mr. C. J. L. Stewart (Liquidator) presiding, after reading the notice calling the meeting, said:

"The affairs of the Company are not yet fully wound up owing to several matters to which I shall refer later on.

"My appointment as liquidator was made on May 30, 1921, and duly confirmed on June 15, 1921.

"The object of the winding up was to reconstruct the Company and to write down the shares and obtain further capital.

"An agreement was duly completed between myself as the liquidator of the old Company and the Directors of the new Company (which was duly formed and registered) by which the new Company took over all assets and liabilities whatsoever of the old Company and undertook to allot three shares of one tael each in the new Company for every one share in the old Company and to issue further 217,450 new shares of one tael each and to offer these new shares to shareholders in the liquidating Company in the proportion of one new share for every one old share against payment of one tael per new share.

"The issued share capital of the old Company was 60,850 shares of Tls. 5 each which called for 182,550 shares of one tael each in the new Company.

"Of these 182,550 shares I have issued to shareholders in the old Company 170,586 shares, and the balance of 11,964 shares are to be issued to old shareholders as and when applied for in exchange for share certificates in the old Company, these certificates have presumably changed hands (without being transferred in the books of the Company) and there are no means of ascertaining the present holders. No doubt they will be presented for exchange later on.

"All the liabilities of the old Company are being defrayed as per agreement by the new Company.

"The assets were also taken over by the new Company, therefore no actual property has come into my possession hence there are no accounts to be submitted.

"The title deeds of the estate are still registered in the name of the old Company. I hope at an early date to be in a position to make the necessary transfer and to complete the liquidation.

"To comply with the ordinances it was necessary for me to call this meeting at the end of the first year from the commencement of the winding up, and to lay before you what has been done during the past year.

"That, gentlemen, is all I have to report and I thank you for your attendance."

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.
INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilised countries twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!
We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

IODISED
THROAT TABLETS
Allay all irritation

THE General Public is hereby notified that supplies of "IXL" IODISED THROAT TABLETS, the remarkable new throat remedy that is now being so largely and successfully prescribed by physicians in Great Britain, are now being made available for residents in China.

Representing the latest advance in scientific throat medication. these tablets, by reason of their Iodine content, are indubitably superior to any other pastilles or tablets that have yet been evolved by scientific research.

Their use is positively indicated in all cases of Sore and Ulcerated Throat, Hoarseness, Quinsy, Throat Catarrh, Tonsilitis, Laryngitis, etc.

As a highly efficient throat disinfectant when epidemics are rife, IODISED THROAT TABLETS indoubtedly excel any other preparation yet put upon the market.

No malignant Diptheria, Influenza, or other germ can find lodgement on a membranous surface that has been subjected to the peculiar antiseptic influences of these tablets.

Pleasant to the palate, and allaying all irritation, each tablet, as it slowly dissolves in the mouth, releases, in harmonious combination with other fine quality medicaments, a specific quantity of the pure Tincture of Iodine, to soothe, heal, and sterilize the inflamed area.

WARNING:—All cartons of the genuine and original IODISED THROAT TABLETS bear the "IXL" trade-mark, and each tablet is embossed with the letter "A." Reject feeble substitutes.

All first-class chemists supply "IXL" IODISED THROAT TABLETS.

Germans Observe Tannenberg Fete

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 13.—That a Nationalist feeling is still high in Germany was evidenced by demonstrations and disorders in Koenigsberg today. The Munich Government forbade the Reichswehr to participate in the demonstrations at Koenigsberg in commemoration of Field-Marshal von Hindenburg's victory at Tannenberg and on the Bug but both the Reichswehr and the Marines disobeyed, the latter marching in the procession with loaded rifles.

Field-Marshal von Hindenburg held a parade, and a clash with a Labor counter demonstration resulted in many casualties, including one workman killed by a bayonet.

President Ebert while visiting Munich was hooted and jeered by crowds of Monarchists who pulled down the Republican flag at the Station prior to the President's arrival.

Members of the Trade Unions lined the streets and conflicts ensued but with no casualties as there were no soldiers present.

Chinese In Britain Fined For 'Smoking'

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—In rejecting the appeal of two Chinese, who were fined £25 for opium smoking at Liverpool, the Stipendiary declined, however, to endorse the magistrate's recommendation for their deportation because there was no evidence that the practice of opium smoking was spreading to British residents.

It transpired during the hearing that the population of Chinatown in Liverpool had diminished by 1,500 during the war, but that it was still the largest colony in the country. Witnesses stated that apart from opium smoking and gambling the Chinese generally were law-abiding citizens.
